We hacked the system. Music festivals are incredible experiences and offer free camping and admission for volunteers. By volunteering at multiple music festivals, we have found a way to experience the best of the US. (Or at least most of the east coast) Being frugal has allowed us to adventure and learn from the vastness of the US.

Nicole:

Nicole yearns for adventure. She is a college student using her design and development education to live out her dream. Since the age of 12 she strived for a life of excitement through the digital world. Photography was the avenue that she chose to get her there. However, with a push from her family and encouragement from professors, she has found that she is capable of more. Possibly much more. As her college career races to its end, the truth has finally dawned upon her. Her skills can take her down many avenues, she just has to decide on which one.

Justin:

Justin can never say no to a challenge. He experiences as much of the world as he possibly can. He is the kind of person who leads into and out of danger. But the danger is the fun part. His carefree nature is contagious. The ideas and explorations of FestPossessed would not be possible without him.
