

Matthew Tenenbaum • New Media Production

Music has always been a passion of mine from as early as i can remember. I've always had an interest in words, specifically poetry and the way we as humans can manipulate them to create greater meaning. I see music as a very powerful tool of influence that can be used to create different forms of energy and overall effect people's mood/feelings. Through music i believe i can open many other doors for myself within the entertainment industry.

Last First Day of School is the title of my project. As my life as a student comes to an end i reflect on my journey and the lessons I've learned along the way. My mission with this project is to show the world that i have what it takes to make it as an artist in this harsh music industry that exists today. On this project i portray many different areas of my diversity from the lyrics, flow, and overall vibe of each song.

As an independent artist it's extremely important to always believe in yourself and never give up no matter what's happening within your world. Life can be very difficult and demanding at times, but at the end of the day as long as you do something you have a passion for you will never be absent happiness.